Enjoy Life! Don't Stay Bileous, Sick,
Headachy and Constipated

Get a 10-cent box now.

Most old people must give to the bowels some regular help, else they suffer from constipation. The condition is perfectly natural. It is just as natural as it is for old people to walk slowly. For age is never so active as youth. The muscles are less elastic. And the bowels are muscles.

So all old people need Cascarets. One might as well refuse to aid weak eyes with glasses as to neglect this gentle aid to weak bowels. The bowels must be kept active. This is important at all ages, but never so much as at fifty.

Age is not a time for harsh physics. Youth may occasionally whip the bowels into activity, but a lash can't be used every day. What the bowels of the old need is a gentle and natural tonic. One that can be constantly used without harm. The only such tonic is Cascarets, and they cost only 10 cents per box at any drug store. They work while you sleep.—Adv.

U. S. REPLIES TO CARRANZA NOTE

Further Negotiations on Withdrawal of American Troops is Regarded as Useless.

Washington, Jan. 5.—The American reply to General Carranza's rejection of the protocol, which planned for withdrawal of American troops from Mexico was taken yesterday by Luis Cabrera, chairman of the Mexican commissioners, in New York, by Dr. John R. Mott of the American commissioners.

Whether there is to be one more session of the joint commission will depend upon the Mexicans. There will not be a continuation of the conference, however. The report of the American commissioners that further negotiations with the Mexicans were useless has received the approval of President Wilson, and if there is another meeting it will be merely for the formalities of ending the conference.

The American commissioners advised the president to act independently and of his own initiative in the withdrawal of troops and to provide for diplomatic channels through which other questions can be taken up.

The American commissioners continued their reticence yesterday regarding their conference with the president, but it is known that he agreed with them that further negotiations would be useless.

Unofficially it was reported that Ignacio Bonillas, who has served as one of the Mexican commission, would be brought to Washington to succeed Eliseo Arredondo as ambassador. At the embassy it was said there were no such advices; nor was there confirmation at the state department.

TO PRESS THE RAILROAD BILLS

Representative Adamson Is Eager to Have House
Go Ahead

TIRED OF WAITING FOR THE SENATE

Senators Won't Learn New Facts, He Says—Labor
Prepares to Fight

Washington, Jan. 5.—Railroad legislation desired by President Wilson to supplement the Adamson law is to be pressed in the House without waiting for action by the Senate. After a conference with the president Wednesday and while the Senate committee was continuing hearings on the subject, Representative Adamson, chairman of the House commerce committee, announced that within a few days he would introduce and seek the passage of bills designed to prevent railroad employees from striking without giving sixty days' notice, and to empower the president to place tied-up roads in the hands of military authorities in case of public necessity.

It had been understood that the president wanted the railroad program completed by amendments to a measure now pending in the Senate. Mr. Adamson said, however, that he was tired of waiting for the Senate to act. He added: "And I doubt if the members know much more about the subject when the hearings are over than they do now."

Mr. Adamson also will press his proposed special rule, now in the House rules committee, for immediate consideration of his resolution to extend the life of the Newlands railway investigation committee for one year. The life of this committee will expire next Monday unless it is extended. Objection by Representative Rayburn of Texas, Wednesday blocked unanimous consent for consideration of the resolution.

Vigorous opposition to the proposed compulsory notice measure from organized labor generally is anticipated. It was to fight such proposals that the four railroad brotherhoods and the American Federation of Labor representatives recently allied themselves unofficially.

Judge William L. Chambers, of the federal board of mediation and arbitration, Everett P. Wheeler, representing the Reform club of New York, and Amos L. Hathaway of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, testified Wednesday before the Senate committee. Mr. Hathaway thought the bill to give the interstate commerce commission power to fix railroad wages would be a more logical solution of wage problems than arbitration legislation but doubted its expediency.

HEARING CLOSED.

Mr. Crocker Asks for Decision in B. & M. Case.

Boston, Jan. 5.—The federal court hearing on the question of making permanent the present temporary receivership of the Boston & Maine railroad was closed yesterday. Conrad W. Crocker, counsel for the minority stockholders, who are opposed to the direction of the road's affairs by the court, announced that he would decline to introduce further evidence by deposition, because of the limitations which he stated, the court had imposed on the introduction of evidence bearing on alleged fraud and bad faith of the directors in assenting to the receivership.

The court was asked by Mr. Crocker to decide the right of stockholders to intervene, in advance of a decision on the question of permanency of the receivership.

Although the minority interests during the past five weeks have presented evidence attacking the receivership, their right to intervene in the case has never been decided.

He Will Not Again Manage the Boston

Lewiston, Me., Jan. 5.—William F. Carrigan to-day gave a final negative answer to H. H. Frazee, one of the new owners of the Boston Americans, who has been trying to induce him to resume the management of the Red Sox.

After he had conversed by telephone with Frazee at Boston, Carrigan said he could not be induced to return to the game. On account of business and personal matters he desires to remain here, where he is organizing two banks.

The Rasputin Mystery.

Washington, Jan. 5, via London, Jan. 4.—A more lenient press censorship has allowed the newspapers here to publish all conceivable versions of the story of the death of the monk Gregory Rasputin, some of them decorated with dramatic touches and coloring of an Arabian Nights adventure. Comment also is made freely on the life and "evil influence" of the dead monk in high places, though some papers decry the tendency to exaggerate Rasputin's importance in Russian politics and say it is a mistake to regard him as a symbol of conditions in the country or his fall as a changing point in the history of the nation.

How to Interest the Traveler.

In the January Woman's Home Companion, a writer says:

"One of the best means of quickly catching the interest of the passing traveler is shown in a beautiful flower garden on a main highway, not 50 miles from New York. It is a well-kept, artistic garden of old-fashioned flowers, a riot of color the season through. One long bed runs quite a distance by the road on each side of the house, planted with taste and craft, to give a maximum of beauty in successive crops of flowers. Only two harmoniously colored flowers bloom at a time for the whole distance, and the effect is very striking. It is hard to decide which is the more artistic, the purple and yellow iris in early spring, or the gorgeous poppies that follow after, but all through the flower season this bed is sure to catch the eye of the autoist in time to cause him to slow down, to enjoy the garden about the quaint little house. And having slowed down, he next notices an artistic swinging sign-board reading, 'Flower-Garden Tea Room' and inviting the passerby to luncheon or afternoon tea. All so alluring that there is almost too much patronage. He enjoys so entirely the surroundings, the luncheon of good home cooking, the flowers, that he almost resents the entrance into this Eden of a lot of other hungry mortals."

APPROVES BILL BY REP. SPARKMAN

Income Tax Exemption for the Head of a Family

Washington, Jan. 5.—President Wilson favors a "reasonable rivers and harbors bill during the present session of Congress. He told Chairman Sparkman of the House rivers and harbors committee that in a general way he approved the measure framed by Mr. Sparkman, providing for appropriations of about $29,000,000 for continuing existing projects. Mr. Sparkman also took up with the president proposed appropriations aggregating $10,000,000 for new projects. Mr. Wilson did not pass on the items, but Mr. Sparkman said that as it is reported to the House the bill probably will provide for at least a few of the most important new works. A provision for coordination of river improvements, flood control work, reclamation and irrigation wherever possible is being prepared by Mr. Sparkman and probably will be included in the new rivers and harbors bill.

Ruling on Income Tax.

Treasury department officials ruled Wednesday that the $4000 exemption from the income tax law granted to heads of families applies not only to married persons, but to others maintaining dependents over whom they exercise "family control."

The original income tax law named as beneficiaries of the $4000 exemption married men living with their wives and married women living with their husbands. The act of last September, changing the rates of taxation, named "heads of families."

"For this purpose," reads the department's ruling, "a head of a family is held to be a person who actually supports and maintains one or more individuals who are closely connected with him by blood relationship, relationship by marriage or by adoption, and whose right to exercise family control and provide for these dependent individuals is based upon some moral or legal obligation."

After a three-hour executive session, the Senate again failed to reach a
